

“I found my classes to be very fulfilling, the quality and depth of these courses went beyond my expectations”

Sarah Benattar, FRANCE

I came to Edmonds Community College through ISPA, an agency that recommended it to me. I specifically chose the Seattle area, because the first time that I came to the U.S., it was to Seattle. I enjoyed it a lot-I think the environment is great.

I have been studying for two years at Edmonds CC, and I earned my International Business Associates degree. I enjoyed a lot my International Studies courses. I found them to be very fulfilling, the quality and depth of these courses went beyond my expectations. The teachers were very interesting, involved, and always available for their students. I am planning to study government, diplomacy and strategy in the Middle East, and I think that Edmonds CC provided me a great start.

Being an international student at Edmonds Community College is a great advantage: you get to share your culture and your views on the world with Americans and people from many different countries. Edmonds Community College opened my vision and my mind. All these students are here to build a better peaceful world. I can see the leaders of tomorrow. When I see all these cultures united, like here at Edmonds CC. I can't help thinking it's a wonderful opportunity to study here. It feels just like the right place to be as a student. Every staff member is concerned about the success and blooming of the students. And this is what makes Edmonds CC so special and attractive for many international students.
